

Personal Pride

This activity will allow club members to:

- Reflect on personal accomplishments.
- Make plans to continue serving others.
- Improve communication skills.

Materials needed:

- One printed worksheet per member. Download it at kkids.org/IDEA.
- Envelopes
- Pens or pencils

How to lead this activity:

Reflect on what you've gained from the club's service project—and decide how to continue serving others!

1. Give each member a Personal Pride worksheet. Ask each one to write a letter to himself/herself about their experience planning a service project in the K-Kids club. Encourage them to write about how they felt while planning and completing the service project—and how they feel now. Ask them to include how the club experience has changed them personally.
2. Let members know the letters will be given to either the faculty advisor or the Kiwanis advisor. At the beginning of the next school year, the advisor will send the letters to each member as a reminder of why K-Kids and service are so important.
3. When everyone is finished, give each member an envelope. Tell them to address the envelope with their name and mailing address, put the letter in the envelope and seal it.
4. When everyone has addressed their envelopes, collect them.
5. Thank all members for their hard work and dedication to the service project.
6. Talk about your experience as a club officer and how proud you are to be a member of K-Kids.

Personal Pride

Date: _____

Dear Me,

Sincerely,

Mark all that apply.

I pledge to continue my life of service by:

- Being a member or officer of K-Kids again next year.
- Joining Builders Club in my middle school.
- Encouraging my friends and family to volunteer with me on service projects during my school break.
- Being more aware of the service needs around me and helping where I can.
- Doing more acts of kindness for people around me to brighten their days.
