Advisor Responsibilities

The K-Kids advisor is charged with empowering youth in their elementary years by guiding members through the themes of service leadership – Learn, Engage, Serve and Lead.

Let us know if your club advisor focused on the required advisor responsibilities during the year. Respond yes or no to the following questions.

Learn: The advisor helped youth learn about assets and needs in their community and the world. Through K-Kids Service Guide activities, members learned hard and soft skills and how to plan an effective service initiative.

- Yes
- No

Engage: The advisor guided youth in how to effectively collaborate, problem solve and accomplish goals by engaging with others. As a result, club members learned the art of conversation, how to build coalitions and how to raise resources for service.

Yes  No

Serve: The advisor assisted youth in discovering their power to make a difference. Club members developed the ability to empathize with people in need, discover a sense of place in their community, and learned how to make meaningful social contributions.

Yes  No

Lead: The advisor assisted youth in learning how to be other-centered, developing their ability to move an idea into purposeful action, building essential skills, and accepting their identity as a leader.

Yes  No

Going above and beyond

Review the following criteria sharing ways in which the faculty or Kiwanis advisor has gone above and beyond to empower and support club officers and members.

According to the Search Institute, building strong Developmental Relationships with youth helps them discover who they are, cultivate abilities to shape their own lives and helps them learn how to engage with and contribute to the world around them.

Review the ways a K-Kids advisor can build strong Developmental Relationships with club members and respond yes or no as to whether your advisor did this. If there is an example you remember about how the advisor interacted with club members and you want to share, write more information in the comments section. Adding a comment isn't required in determining the advisor's eligibility but is welcome to learn about the positive interactions our advisors have with club members and officers.

The advisor expressed care by showing club members and officers they matter. This was apparent through the advisor's attendance at club meetings, and by the way the advisor encouraged involvement of all members and listened intently to member input.

Yes  No

If there is an example about how the advisor showed care, please share:

The advisor challenged the growth of club members and officers expecting the best from everyone. If a task or job wasn't completed those involved were held accountable.

Yes  No

If there is an example about how the advisor challenged growth, please share:

The advisor provided support and helped club members and officers complete tasks and achieve goals. Members were empowered to take the initiative in planning and completing service projects and guidance was offered when requested. The advisor worked with members to identify clear boundaries keeping everyone on track and advocated for members when project selection or activities were in question.

Yes  No

If there is an example about how the advisor provided support, please share:

The advisor empowered club members and officers and treated them with respect. This included providing opportunities for collaboration involving all club members and officers in discussion.

Yes  No

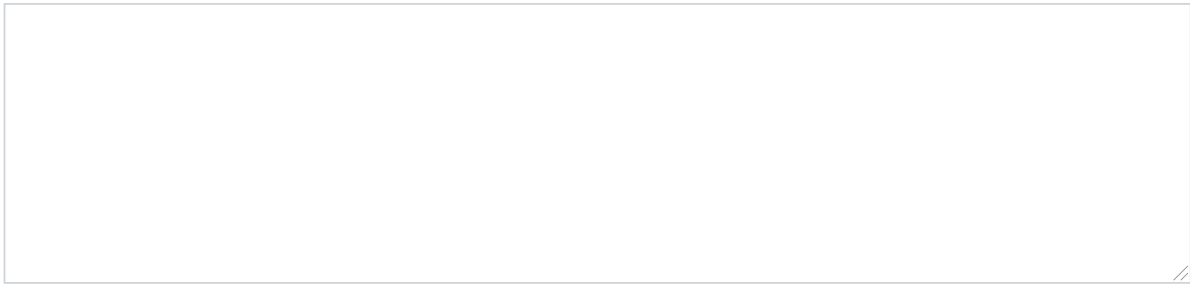

If there is an example about how the advisor empowered youth, please share:

The advisor expanded possibilities for club members and officers by connecting members with people and places that broadened their perspective exposing them to new ideas, experiences, and perspectives.
